

Socomec Group participates in Full Link Technology

Benfeld, September 2016

Socomec Group is taking a significant participation in Full Link Technology to strengthen his UPS operation in Hong Kong.

With this participation, Socomec aim to reinforce its position in HK in the UPS business, providing comprehensive solutions and professional services to its customers through a new company named Socomec Full Link Technology

FLT, built his reputation as the sole agent and distributor of UPS products for Socomec in Hong Kong for over 15 years and has developed a strong engineering team to support the client's need from design, supply, and installation of UPS system and maintenance service.

For Gary Wong, founder and managing director of Full Link Technology "This participation strengthens sustainable business growth and much wider market penetration in various industries. The new company will benefit from Socomec technical experience and financial stability, to ensure its future and its development in the field of UPS equipment where innovation is a priority. We can now offer our customers the products and services of an international group that complement our own offering."
